This Picture Shows the Damage to the Streckert Plywood corporation building at Crandon as a fire and explosion ripped the plant Wednesday. Three men fighting the fire on the roof were injured in the blast. One man was seriously hurt, falling into the flames below. The other two reached roof ladders safely.

3 Men Escape Death In Mill Explosion

Firefighters on Roof of Burning Crandon Plant When Blast Occurs

Crandon — "The roof went out from under me. I grabbed parts of the mill are blown off the edge of the wall and hung there, ground even finer, and on. There was the fire—right fed into the boiler fires."

"Let's Get Out!"

So spoke Barney Hoffman. "The first blast came about 15 minutes after the fire was started. It blew the windows a few hours after a fire and out of the power house. A few two explosions ripped through minutes later I yelled to the power house of the mill."

Girl Blamed As Leader of Vandal Gang

Tyler Falls into Flames

Tyler, the most seriously injured, fell right into a Denver high school.

Here's the story told by police today:

The girl was expected to stay home and care for her three younger sisters last Saturday while her mother went to an evening job. The girl said her mother had promised to let her attend the picnic, then changed her mind.

Angrily, she left the house with her 11-year-old sister, and the two began throwing rocks through windows of West Denver High school.

They ripped out records in the principal's office and scattered food in the home economics rooms.

That night, with two 17-year-old boys, the girls planned a Sunday escapade during which they went back to the school and smashed $2,000 worth of band instruments. One of the boys admitted starting a fire that caused $5,000 damage.

The boys were picked up first and they blamed the spree on the older girl. Detective Les Streeter said. The youngsters were questioned again today. No charges have been filed.

Government Lays Violence To Communistic Agitation

Guayaquil, Ecuador — Four black mice and not be led astray by agitators. Machine gun fire cracked tators. blasted aloft in an air force attempt to return a living creature from a satellite for the first time, apparently didn't make it.

The general staff said in a communique that it had proof of a "dangerous subversive plot that may threaten the very existence of the Ecuadorian nation." It blamed subversive elements, "some of them in the service of foreign interests."

Civilians joined the conscripts in lynching their commanding officer, who they blamed for the suicide of one of the draftees. During the fighting that followed two students were killed.

Military authorities ordered a 10 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew for the city of 275,000, Ecuador's largest. President Camilo Ponce earlier had proclaimed martial law throughout the predominantly Indian nation "to save the republic from anarchy and aggression."

Appeal for Calm The communist party openly challenged the martial law decree and appealed for "a great front of popular and democratic unity to prevent dictatorship." A red manifesto charged the government with trying to confuse the people by raising the dirty, discredited banner of anti-communism.

The army general staff in taking over command of the country appealed to students and workers to remain calm and to even closer relations with the United States.

"We are going to strengthen our ties with the United States," Kishi said in an election victory statement on TV.

The conservative leader said there will be efforts also to expand the nation's economy and increase the income of its people.

The original postwar U.S.-Japan relationship, created by Japan's World War II defeat and occupation, had long been under attack here as unbecoming an independent nation.

Two men attacked Jackie Leonard, fight promoter of Hollywood League, as he was putting away his automobile after a short trip to a neighboring drug store in Northridge, a Los Angeles suburb.

Leonard suffered a severe head wound. Police said he apparently was struck with a gallon jug containing chlorine for his swimming pool.

Leonard's wife said a hammer was also out of place in the garage.

The promoter has been under daily police guard since he told a special hearing by the California Athletic Commission that he had been threatened by Frank Carbo, who is under indictment in New York on charges of acting as an undercover boxing manager.

Leonard testified that Frank Carbo, an associate of Carbo, demanded half the manager's share of earnings.

"We're in for half," Leonard said. "We will soon have a card quoted Palermo as saying queen," declared the news-paper Samedi, published in progress for a title fight between Virgil Akins and Joe Sica.

The air force wanted them to orbit the earth in a satellite. Discoverer III, for 26 hours, then parachute in their air-conditioned capsule.

However, something went wrong. The 2-stage Thor missile roared into space yesterday as scheduled and sent back radio signals for 13 minutes. Then the signals stopped. The air force said it has heard nothing since.

Six hours after the firing, the ballistic missile division said: "Based on information presently available, it is believed that the Discoverer did not achieve an orbit."

Believed Burned Up

The 78-foot-long projectile was presumed to have burned up on reentering the atmosphere. It was considered highly unlikely that it could have escaped the earth's pull because of speed factors.

Planes had been poised to try a difficult aerial catch over the Pacific, but officials had given them only a chance in 700 of succeeding.

The mice, pick of their breed, would have been the first creatures retrieved alive

Blames Ignorance

"I guess I was foolish to believe that. Out of the whole block, just one guy, only one,

has come up to shake hands,"

Poskonka told a newsman yesterday.

His wife, Antoinette, 35, agreed.

"It's ignorance, that's all it is," she said with a slight Polish accent. "These people have hated us so long, we don't know how to change."

But some of Poskonka's

stockyards district neighbors

had different things to say.

"This is an old Polish neighborhood," said one.

"They'll never admit we are wrong. No one has a good word to say about anyone else."

Another declared he never did shun the 57-year-old Pos-konka. "I don't have any thing to do with my neigh-business."

A third said the Communist guise had nothing to do with Poskonka's complaint at all.

"It's his personality," she said. "He never did have a lot of friends. He's not too friendly himself."

Mystery Fighters Approach Airliner

Jets Believed to be Russian Make Three Observation Passes on U.S. Plane 200 Miles Off Soviet Area

Tokyo — Jet planes believed to be Russian made three observation approaches on an American airliner over the north Pacific today more than 200 miles off Soviet territory. Northwest Airlines reported.

The U.S. air force said it had no planes in the area at the time, prompting speculation that Soviet fighters had approached the Seattle-to-Tokyo Northwest DC7C.

The plane crew reported that the closest approach came within two or three miles but the plane or planes did not cross in front of the airliner.

The American plane continued on course and reached Tokyo ahead of schedule. Its 46 passengers were asleep and apparently unaware of the incident.

A Northwest spokesman said the mystery planes appeared when the airliner was some 200 miles southeast of the Soviet Union's Kamchatka peninsula, at 50 degrees 50 minutes north latitude, 162 degrees east longitude, and in the center of the busy commercial air lane used by five U.S., Canadian and European companies.

Siberian-based Soviet jets have recently been reported patrolling the region of the great circle air lane between Japan and Alaska.

An airline spokesman said from vapor trails and specks in the dawn sky, it was assumed two or three jets were involved. The planes dropped two flares, presumably to identify the American craft.

The airliner's captain, Ira Bortles of Seattle, said the first approach was made from the direction of Siberia by a single-jet fighter of some sort. He said the plane "changed course as if to cross in front of us, and when he was two to three miles from us, turned left and away."

Less than a minute later Bortles continued, a bright white flare was spotted, and the airliner passed within a mile or two of it.

While watching the flare, the plane crew saw another jet—or the first one—appear again on the right, come within 10 miles, then turn away.

A minute or two later another jet appeared on the same side, came within 10 or 15 miles and disappeared behind the airliner.

"On this third approach there was another flare," Bortles said.

Pass Bill to Up Wages of State Workers

Republicans in Assembly Object to Spending Measure

Madison — A Democratic-sponsored bill appropriating $5,250,000 for salary increases for 23,000 state employees was advanced by the assembly Wednesday night over Republican objections.

The biennial cost figure emerged after an amendment moved its effective date back from July 1 to next Jan. 1. Under the bill, $3,200,000 would come from the general fund, the rest from segregated funds.

Jerris Leonard, R-Milwaukee, who led the GOP attack on the bill, said the move to grant the increase Jan. 1, showed the "Democrats are panicking because they don't know where the money's coming from." Ben Riehle, D-Athens, offered the amendment.

While watching the flare, the plane crew saw another jet—or the first one—appear again on the right, come within 10 miles, then turn away.

A minute or two later another jet appeared on the same side, came within 10 or 15 miles and disappeared behind the airliner.

"On this third approach there was another flare," Bortles said.

Gov. Nelson Proposes State Debt

Wisconsin people have long taken a certain pride in the fact that the constitution prohibited the state from going into debt beyond $100,000. This is a sum so small people have regarded it as no debt at all.

Now, however, Gov. Nelson is telling the people that the state prohibition against indebtedness is nothing to be proud of. In fact, he says, it is a piece of folly because it is costing the people of Wisconsin a great deal of money each year. Most people have known all along that despite the prohibition against debt, the state of Wisconsin has been borrowing money. This has been accomplished through dummy building corporations which contract debt for the construction of a building and then pay it off with the income from the building. The state's freedom from indebtedness is thus regarded as fiction because in many instances the state actually pays off the debt or a part of it by paying rent for the buildings instead of paying bonds which might be issued for the building's construction.

The governor points out that the state's indebtedness contracted through these corporations has gone up from $4,000,000 in 1956 to $45,000,000 the first of this year.

The method of borrowing through corporations is perfectly legal and has been approved by the state supreme court. There can be little criticism of those who use this method for it is quite obvious that the state could not possibly handle its business and provide adequate buildings without some such device. Thus the governor's proposal to borrow money is nothing new. We have been doing that all the time.

What he proposes is to change the constitution so that the state will be in position to borrow money for the construction of public buildings with the full faith and credit of the state supporting the loan. This change, he says, will give us lower interest rates than is possible on the revenue bonds issued by building corporations. He has suggested that the limit on the state's borrowing be set at one per cent of the equalized value of all real estate in Wisconsin. At present that would amount to $170,000,000. He proposes further that no more than one-fifth of this amount be borrowed in any one year, or approximately $34,000,000. He would further limit it by making the maximum maturity on any loan 40 years.

He believes that such loans could be made at about 20 per cent less cost than with the building corporations. He says that since 1953 the extra compensation necessary for borrowing has been from 3/10 of one per cent to one per cent of the principal a year. Thus if the state were in debt up to its limit of $170,000,000 and we were to make only the minimum gain of 3/10 of one per cent of the principal per year the state would be saving $510,000 annually on such a loan.

Marines Change Tactics But Not Goal

The Marine reception center for recruits from the area east of the Mississippi, at Parris Island, S. C., has greatly changed during the past three years. This is the opinion of Homer Bigart of the New York Times who recently paid a visit to the boot camp. The nation was aroused about three years ago by a story of six Marine rookies being drowned in a tidal creek during a disciplinary march. Maj. Gen. Robert Burnstone Luckey, commander of the Marine depot, insists that the corps was not stampeded into basic changes by the drowning incident but nevertheless declares he has suppressed all practices "offending against human dignity" in the recruit training program.

One of the changes made is in the selection of the drill instructors. Candidates for this job today must have demonstrated ability to conduct close order drill and possess "a strong, clear voice unhampered by any heavy accent." They must be "emotionally stable" and have "reliability; the absence of any traces of immaturity as shown by a record of unauthorized absences, offenses involving moral turpitude or negligence in the performance of duty." Further they must have no financial or family problems of their own.

Once they are selected and have taken the course of training the work will be easier than it has been for drill sergeants

In addition, the governor says the dummy corporations make it necessary for the state to pay extra money to a bank as acting trustee, to a bond counsel for extensive work in determining the legality of the bond issue, to an underwriters' firm for processing the cost which the state could readily handle, and must pay up to 25 to 30 years' interest on these three additional items since all expenses are a part of the bond issue and are included in the original issue. The governor says that the state debt of $100,000,000 contracted through dummy corporations would cost $15,000,000 more in interest and $3,500,000 more in extra expenses or a total of $18,500,000 more than it would cost the state if it were permissible to issue constitutionally approved bonds.

Since it is generally agreed on all sides that the state cannot function without borrowing money it seems perfectly logical to do as the governor says and change the constitution to permit borrowing under the most advantageous terms possible. It is hard to think of a greater folly than to pay out unnecessary money in interest and costs.

However, the governor in earlier talks has mentioned a proposal to borrow money for the construction of highways. He pointed out that the costs of construction have been mounting during the past decade with every prospect that they may continue to climb in the future. Thus, he says, we are getting along without roads we need now and which we could have if we were allowed to borrow money for highway construction. Furthermore, he says, the cost of interest on such borrowing would not come close to equaling the increased costs in construction due to delay.

Thus the governor's plea for highway borrowing is no less logical than his urging constitutional change to borrow for public buildings. But, of course, his highway building plans are not included in his proposal for a $170,000,000 debt limit. New roads across the state or lengthwise of the state would cost a great deal more than the $170,000,000 mentioned for public buildings, but it would nevertheless become a state obligation and it should be considered along with the public building proposed in order that the people of Wisconsin may know where we are going financially.

We think it would be wise for the governor to discuss both of these propositions at once. Amending the constitution in Wisconsin is a rather lengthy process requiring the adoption of the proposal twice by the legislature with public discussion running over a 2-year period between legislative sessions and finally requiring adoption by popular vote of the people. Since the governor believes these things are urgent it would seem wise to have them put before the public completely so that they can be discussed and adopted in the shortest possible time if they prove to be desirable.

Their responsibility to our culture requires the maximum development of individual potentialities at all levels. This includes particular attention to those students who are of above average ability — the academically talented.

Interest in special programs for the academically talented is unprecedented. Systematic programs are now getting underway in many areas. A number of states are preparing legislation designed to provide financial assistance for increased testing, counseling, curriculum development and smaller classes which

Tibetans Know Chinese Song Is Funeral Dirge

From The San Diego Union

The communist Chinese are now broadcasting the words and music of a new song which they claim was composed in their honor by Tibetans.

The alleged Tibetan song lauds the Red Chinese for their "love and concern for the people, their protection of the monasteries and their respect for the freedom of religious beliefs."

The song, of course, was composed by Communist despots, not by free Tibetans. And the tune does not fool anyone. The Reds' slaughter of the Tibetans, their destruction of the monasteries and their persecution of Tibetan monks are well known.

Regardless of the happy words in the new Red song, the free world will recognize it for what it is: A funeral dirge.

The doctor informs us that he intends to buy a good lot and erect a large brick veterinary college for the instruction of students.

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

This may or may not be the case now, however. Dior's spring and summer collection is not the first showing in Moscow, British, Italian and Polish fashions already have been presented. American styles will be shown there for several months this summer.

But we can't help feeling the Russian attitude, after all, hasn't changed a great deal. In fact, the key to this sudden splurge of fashion in an historically drab land may be found in a Dior official's candid assertion that "the purpose of this trip is prestige."

Cocktail gowns and Moscow's "woman on the street," somehow, seem most incongruous. Beautifying the babushka might be a much more worthwhile endeavor.

The people of Brown county always have been generous with the Red Cross in the past and thus it is a little difficult to explain the failure to raise the quota this year. It is true that severe storms and winter weather interfered with the drive. In addition, it is said that some people have taken a stand against individual drives and hope to support a United Chest drive by limiting contributions to individual campaigns. However this may

Gadsden, Ala. — It cost the city more than $2,000 to find out there's no great need for garbage cans in Gadsden.

When curb pickup of garbage began in 1955 the city bought 10,000 garbage cans for resale to the public. The cans cost $2.47 each.

Recently the city commission accepted the offer of a private appliance company to take the last 2,500 of the cans off the city's hands at $1.50 each.

The sideliner may be permitted to doubt that this conversion to the cause of scientifically accurate income tax collection efficiency is wholly real. There are other considerations, including the fact that the recent windfall of withholding may be the difference between fiscal success or failure of the Democratic state administration.

If, as is likely, the governor in the fall offers revision of income tax rates as a consequence of this celebrated tax impact study, the withholding law will be even more essential for political security.

For one of the obvious results of tax withholding, whatever other virtues or shortcomings are credited to it, will be the disguising of the effects of higher income tax levies upon more than a million voting Wisconsin inhabitants.

No Forgiving of Tax In Democrat Scheme

Madison — The Democrats lost a significant round in the legislative finance committee the other day when they were forced to vote down the motion of Sen. Kirby Hendee to tie a "forgiveness" clause to the income tax withholding bill. Wyngaard cize the fact that it is the acceleration of tax collections and the "windfall" resulting that is the charm of withholding for the Democrats, rather than the purported increased efficiency of collections.

On the other hand, he forced a record vote against "forgiveness" by the Democrats, who had privately been prepared to concede something of that kind in order to pick up votes on the floor for their very doubtful proposition — in terms of its prospects for approval.

THE HINT

Hendee pointedly recalled that Gov. Nelson wants to collect the tax obligations of individuals and corporations for three years in the period of two years — in his "pay as you go" plan.

The consequent $78,000,000 bonanza would pull him out of an awkward hole in financing his own program of more institution building — and permit him to distribute a politically useful bonus to the hungry treasuries of the local governments of Wisconsin.

Hendee also pointed to the repeated, and somewhat sanctimonious, claims of the governor and his publicists that their primary concern is efficiency of collections. The people of Brown county have an opportunity now to see how this organization functions and how necessary it is to the smooth operation of the American way of life.

There is an opportunity now for people to make up for local failure to support this organization by contributing to the disaster fund. Contributions to this fund already have been reported at the chapter office and it is expected many more will be made in the near future. Brown county, of course, is well able to take care of all of its own people if necessary but there is no good reason why it should not use the expert help and facilities of the Red Cross in doing so. We will probably all feel better about it if we make generous contributions to the disaster fund to assure the Red Cross of enough money to take care of those suffering loss in this area and there should be some left over to take care of others in less fortunate parts of the country.

THE OUTLOOK

Democrats and their allies who never concerned themselves about the efficiency of tax collections during the preceding half a century have been campaigning militantly for the governor's withholding plan.

Their anxiety is evidently taking the finance committee Democrats by surprise. Sen. Stabaum, the Democrats' stalwart on strategy, uttered angrily, Frank Coughlin, a moderate Democrat representing Republican Richland county, asked Hendee if he would consider a partial forgiveness.

Recognizing his advantage, Hendee declined. Obviously Coughlin had given the game away. The Democrats had hoped to offer partial forgiveness, depending on the exigencies of the situation, when the measure hit the floor. Now their leadership is on record against the idea.

3 Men Escape Death In Mill Explosion

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 me, I didn't have much choice. 'Let's get out of here,' I pulled myself up over the wall and went down the ladder to run across the flat roof to the side where the ladder was. Tyler was not so lucky. He failed to get to the wall in time and went down with the under me. I grabbed the roof 35 feet into the flames. Lodge of the wall and hung on. Somehow, he managed to with the flames just below crawl through the wood shavings to a door, thence to a stairway and safety. Despite the tragic potential of the situation, no one was critically injured.

Rosa was about six feet away when the second and largest of the two explosions went off. The force of the blast went in three directions—but not in his. Rosa was standing on the roof of a low part of the 65-foot building at the time. Shaken, but not physically injured, he climbed down a ladder to the ground and stayed at the scene for another 10 minutes.

"Then it hit me," he said. "It was just like I was drunk, or something. I felt like I wanted to cry. Rosa was under a doctor's care for about two hours because of the smoke and shock, but suffered no other ill effects.

Fire Controlled

Crandom's two fire engines and 25-man volunteer force, with the aid of another truck and 10 men from Laona, had the fire under control in about an hour and a half. But a skeleton force stayed on the scene for several hours afterwards to see that the powdered wood did not re-ignite.

The fire, apparently resulting from a mechanical failure in the equipment which grinds up the wood scraps, was noticed about 11 a.m. The first explosion which knocked out the windows of the building occurred 15 minutes later. Another quarter of an hour elapsed before the big blast, which tore off the roof, shattered a good portion of three of the walls and twisted the steel framework holding the "cyclone," a steel tank-like structure into which sawdust is blown from other parts of the mill.

Total damage, according to Joe Kluss, 41, manager of the building of the power house plant, probably will run about $35,000. Part of the mill was to be reopened today. It was not known when repairs and re-

Satellite and 4 Black Mice Fail to Orbit

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 from orbit. Two monkeys were fired into space from Cape Canaveral by the army May 28 but their trip covered only 1,500 miles. They were not intended to go into orbit.

Information from yesterday's launching will be used in planning the Project Mercury attempt to put man in orbit some two years from now.

Carried Tiny Radio

At blastoff the mice underwent an acceleration force seven or eight times that of gravity. This was nothing new to them—they had trained in the flight in test chambers simulating the severe stressa skeleton force stayed on the es to which they would be exposed.

Strapped on their backs like saddles were tiny radios. These were intended to relay their heartbeat, breathing, temperature and muscular activity back to earth. Their color—black—was to have shown the effects of any cosmic radiation, based on the degree of graying.

The Thor IRBM first stage and Bell-Hustler second stage functioned satisfactorily, the air force said. The missile was last heard from by a telemetering ship 1,200 miles south of the launch site. The absence of sightings or radar contacts from that or radar contacts from that time on led authorities to doubt that the missile had gone into orbit.

The air force said its next Discoverer will not carry animals but will be strictly an attempt to improve the propulsion and instrumentation of the rockets used in the series.

Yesterday's launching followed four unsuccessful tries.

Poor weather and technical difficulties delayed the others.

Neenah Asks Engineering Aid for S. Commercial Job

Neenah — Application to fore a decision can be made the state highway department by the state highway commission for engineering aid in connection as to whether and when with the reconstruction of it will approve the work being done, such a request must be made.

Mayor Bell mentioned be-

Sale of the old city garage property on Main street to Bergstrom Paper company for $30,000 was unanimously approved by the council.

The mayor mentioned the price had been determined by an independent appraisal company and this would allow the paper company to expand its facilities in Neenah.

The city receives an easement over a 60-foot strip on the west side of the property which will give it access to the park area planned eventually for the south end of Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Ald. Ewald Miller asked if the garage could not be used by the city as a maintenance shop but the mayor replied it would be costly to rehabilitate it and that other provisions were being considered which would better benefit the park board.

Q. I am a widow and I was solely dependent on my son when he was killed in an auto accident February 1959. Is there anything I should do now to be eligible for benefits on his account, even though I am not age 62?

A. You should contact the

Q. Is there any limit to the number of years which a disabled child can draw disability benefits?

Q. Has there been any change in coverage of house-hold workers under the 1958 amendments?

A. No. The requirements are the same as before. Adoption by a stepfather will not terminate the child's employment must be paid $50 payment on his deceased fa-

MEALTIME MASTERPIECES

Special Showing
for June
Dairy Month

Like man's masterpieces of art, nature's masterpieces for mealtime have a long-lasting and universal appeal.

But unlike their framed counterparts, nature's masterpieces present a pretty picture to the palate as well as the eye. What's more, they're available to us all—especially during June Dairy Month, when an abundance of wholesome dairy foods floods the land.

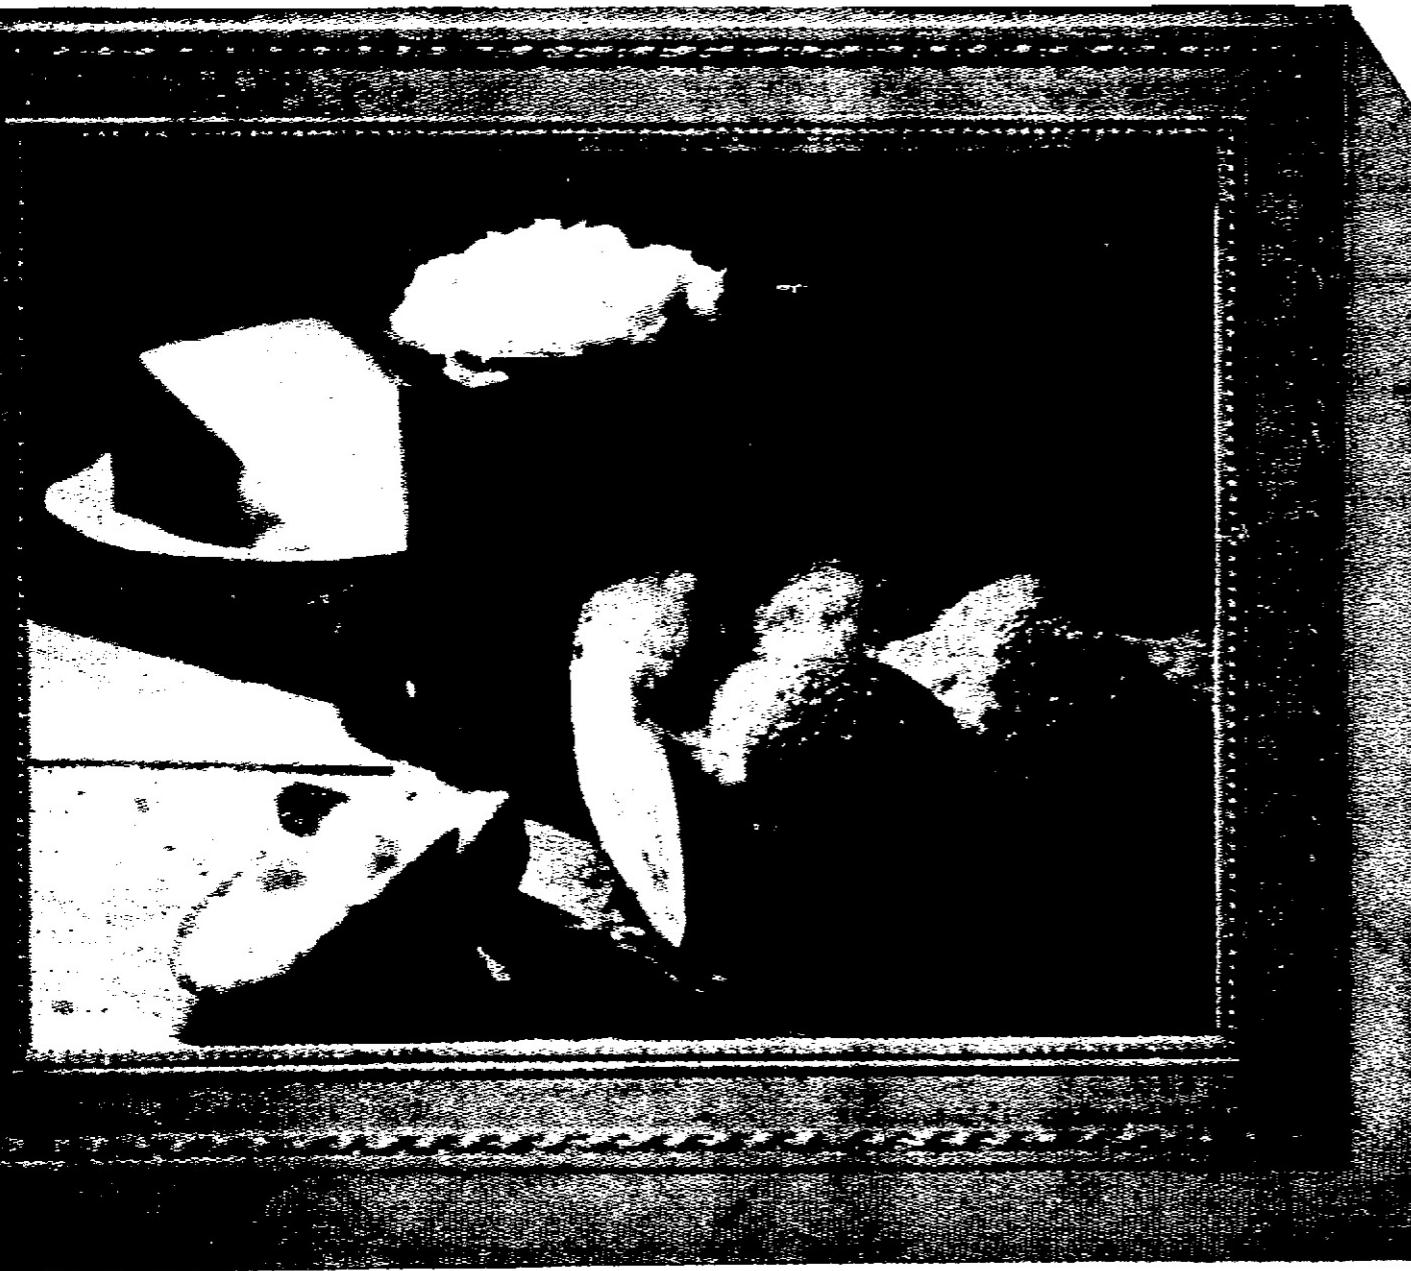

Here, in the style of Rembrandt, Renoir, Van Gogh and other master painters, are the "classics" of nature's dairy foods collection. Be sure to include them often in your June menus, for it's a fact that June's best meal ideas begin with dairy foods.

Coeds Learn The FHA Way

Darlene Jeske, Center, editor of the District 4 of the FHA, chats with two Winneconne delegates, Charlotte Freund, left, and Luona Hannemann, right, at the state convention at the American Baptist assembly at Green Lake.

Smets, was included on the evening's program with "Hatbox Magic" and Outagamie County home agent, Miss Nyla Bock, will discuss "At Home in Scandinavia" on today's

Adviser Travels State, Aids Students, Teachers

The convention highlight will be this evening when awards and scholarships are presented to members at the banquet. Three senior girls who have been outstanding members of FHA and who plan to study home economics will be the recipients of $100 scholarships. They are Marlene Skolas, Westby; Judith Lauritzen Wild Rose, and Myrna Castleberg, Durand, national treasurer of the FHA.

Honorary memberships will be awarded to two adult advisers who have made notable contributions to the state and local chapters. They are Miss Irene Krause, Shawano, and junior high schools. "The job is different from teaching," explained Miss Nickel "although it lets me work in the field of education and still teach students, but on a broader basis."

There are three members of the home economics department of the state board who hold similar jobs which require an advanced degree and civil service status. They supervise state home economics teachers and advise them in the fields of home furnishings, clothing, foods, management and consumer education.

"The emphasis today is on management," Miss Nickel explained. "Because of advertising pressures, housewives need to be educated in consumer research. Each home maker must work out her own way of managing time and money, but we try to help the teachers to help them."

In explaining her work with the FHA, Miss Nickel said it is most gratifying to see the girls who are state officers progress in self-confidence and poise during their year in office and to teach all members to make the most of their educational opportunities.

"The responsibilities of a homemaker are so great today," emphasized the teacher and adviser. "Women, and housewives in particular, must have training in so many things and they need to take advantage of opportunities to learn new things all through their adult lives."

Her job, which she has held for eight years, requires travel through the state and visiting various home economics departments in senior and junior high schools. "The job is different from teaching," explained Miss Nickel "although it lets me work in the field of education and still teach students, but on a broader basis."

Mrs. Jesse Smith

Mrs. Jesse Smith was installed as president of the United Lutheran Church Women of Our Saviour Lutheran church in 8 p.m. ceremonies Tuesday at the church parlor. The Rev. John Peterson, pastor, conducted the ceremonies.

Others taking chairs were Mrs. William Ramsay, vice president; Mrs. David Schuster, secretary; Mrs. Gus Smedlund, treasurer; Mrs. Andrew Marske, Christian service chairman; Mrs. Wilbert Spanagel, Christian education chairman; Mrs. Richard Means, offerings chairman, and Mrs. Joseph Groggious, membership chairman.

Mrs. Spanagel gave a training course for the program. Hostesses for the social were Mrs. Robert Feilheim and Miss Dagmar Madsen.

Board Members for 1959-60 were introduced to Appleton branch of American Association of University Women at the branch's final meeting of the season Wednesday night at Memorial Presbyterian church. Among them, seated from left, are Mrs. Ralph Grobe, president, and Mrs. Robert Beebe, first vice president and program chairman. The MOON AND CONTACT LENSES

Have you ever seen and ad by a Contact Lens Company promising you the Moon?

Fact is, you were probably being fooled. For most people the only similarity between the moon and contact lenses, is that they each appear to be round.

A successful Contact Lens wearer must have:

One: A Visual Error that requires constant wearing of corrective glasses.

Two: A real and earnest desire to wear contact lenses.

If you are in these categories, CORR OPTICIANS Contact Lens Fitter, Mr. William Lewis, will be glad to discuss Contact Lenses with you. If they appear to be indicated for you, he will fit your Contact Lenses on your Eye Doctor's Prescription. Mr. Lewis is in the Fox Cities Areas at all times, and available for Fitting and Servicing, by appointment within a few hours.

Tomorrow's Bridge—Today

Stone Age Bidding Ends With 2,000-Point Loss

BY WILLIAM SEAMON

Both sides are vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:
South West North East
Pass 1 D D'ble Pass
1 N T Pass 2 N T D'ble
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ace of diamonds.

The bidding by South on this hand takes one back to the Stone Age of bridge.

When North doubled one diamond, South had no choice but to respond with one heart even if he had only three small hearts. It is customary for many players to respond with one no trump over an informative double whenever they have a complete bust hand. Nothing could be farther from actual fact. A no trump response should be a fair hand — somewhere between eight and 10 points.

West led the ace of diamonds and almost fell off the chair when the jack came down in dummy. It was now obvious to West that his opponents were going for a ride but he did not want to squeeze East so he switched to the ten of clubs. South took this as a sign that the diamonds were divided and he went up with the ace of clubs. He now led a small heart away from the ace and king and taps sounded for the poor guy.

East won with the jack and returned his other diamond. West won it as dummy discarded a small spade. West now continued with his other five diamonds and dummy got squeezed.

Dummy had to get down to four cards — the ace and king of hearts and the king and jack of spades. West now played his last club and dummy discarded the king of hearts as East won the trick. East now cashed his two good clubs and dummy was forced to throw his two spades. West's ace of spades accounted for the twelfth trick down two thousand points.

Office Romances Are Undesirable

BY SYLVIA PORTER
In offices all over the land, illicit romances between two married employees or between a married and single employee are flourishing.

This is the skeleton in the business closet brought out by a trade publication in its study of love

Porter in the office. Often the furtive romances may be costly to the company because the work of the individuals involved suffers badly. Often the affairs may be costly because the morale of other employees in the office is hurt.

What do company officials do when they are forced by office gossip or a call from a suspicious wife or husband to face the fact of a troublesome, potentially damaging affair?

Some, says the trade publication, take the ostrich attitude.

One official summed up this attitude with the story, "One of our married junior accountants started going out with a typist. There was gossip about it. We ignored it and the whole affair soon blew over."

Did the romance affect their work? "No, it didn't last that long." What if it had? "We'd have fired them. We don't tolerate any interference with the company's business."

The ostrich attitude obviously is maintained only up to a point. When the company's other department, also married, seem at stake, outried. Their work fell below par. Their supervisors warn the ruthless approach don't because he finds himself in a transferred the girl to another building and issued a stay at low levels. The com-

Spring Vegetables, Fruits on Counters

The spring look finally has appeared on the fruit and good, although rather high price, vegetable counters in Fox City since nearby crops of vegetables are ready. Strawberries, tables and fruits are not yet up summer menus.

Blueberries are 49 cents a pint. Cherries range from 50 to 75 cents a pound. Fresh green grapes, considered excellent, are 39 to 49 cents.

Plums Available

Plums range from 23 to 49 cents a pound, considered a good buy at the lower price. Apricots are 19 cents a pound; peaches, 39 cents. Fresh cantaloupe is still high at 39 cents a melon.

Apples remain a good bargain for this time of year. Winesaps are 17 cents a pound; Delicious, 17 cents. Watermelons are high at 9 cents a pound. Bananas range from 15 to 18 cents a pound, considered a fair buy.

Pineapples range from 33 to 39 cents apiece. Large oranges range from 79 cents to $1.16 a dozen, small oranges, from 56 to 79 cents.

Grapefruit, white, is 8 cents; pink, 15 cents. Lemons are 5 cents each.

Charlie Says Goodby to Ottawa River, Starts Trip on Mattawa

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mattawa, Ontario—This day—this happy day—I have made the historic turn into the Mattawa river. I leave behind me the thrilling but vengeful waters of the Ottawa river.

Let's look back at the lady. She was a tough river for me—as tough, perhaps, as she was for the explorers, the intrepid men of God, the hardy voyageurs and courreurs de bois who historically used the Ottawa as a highway.

Generally, the Ottawa is about two miles wide. Occasionally she slims down to a single mile in width, and often she broadens out into a multi-mile lake.

The west wind howls persistently down the Ottawa valley, churning the waters into buffeting waves, and often reaching gale proportions.

Every day of my long journey to this confluence with the Mattawa, I faced—and I feared—the temper of the west wind.

The Ottawa is cold, too. — cold for the casual swimmer. Her temperature is now ran down somewhere around 40 degrees. The sudden duncans I have had to take came as shocks. I will hold them against her, too, as I write my good-bys to that lady.

Ottawa Lovely Lady

But if she is a fierce lady, she also is a lovely one.

To her shores come a myriad of birds and animals.

I watched an eagle making a lazy ascent, circle by circle, until he rose to heights my vision could not reach.

I saw the magnificent Canada geese fly overhead in their incredible V formations, and I heard the noise of their wings as they passed.

Portage Procedure

You cut two saplings and lash them vertically to the two near canoe thwarts, about 15 inches apart. Pull the canoe to the knee, then the shoulders, with the saplings acting as both cushion and grip for the hands.

Then off you go into brush, forest, thicket, over jagged rocks, deadfall logs, and brambles. Strike a tree or a branch with the canoe and down you go, tossing the canoe to the softest place in the thicket as you fall.

The Ottawa is bountiful too. When I sought fish for food they were there for the taking, my largest being a pickerel of about seven pounds.

Wilderness Food

She gave me a rabbit which I caught in a snare, and she let me have tea leaves and vegetables from her bountiful eral trips for motor, grill, grub sack, pack-sack, tent sack, fishing gear. Then re-load your canoe and proceed to the next portage.

On high dams, you must make a harness of your canoe rope and drag it ever so carefully up steep inclines and sharp rocks so you will not harm your precious friend.

Some portages have been as long as 13 miles. I try to find help over these.

Other Dangers

The Ottawa has other means of striking fear into the heart of the voyager—half sunken, laying hidden for the crash which must come sooner or later for the river traveler. These under-surface logs are called dead-heads and may have been in the river for years, waiting for that one big kill.

Many hidden rocks strew the bottom of the Ottawa, these too in waiting for the careless or unwary. They cause many broken shear-pins. A shear-pin is a part of the propeller assembly of an outboard motor. They are designed to break on impact so only pupils was passed by the house Tuesday night and sent to the senate.

Rep. (Mrs.) G. W. Cover and Rep. C. Wayland Spruill objected to the spanking bill introduced by Rep. Ernest

To repair a broken shear-pin takes only a few minutes. Hicks.

But when your shear-pins are gone, you paddle perhaps for make a practice of whipping miles—against a strong current and a heavy wind. One does, he'll grow up with that rent and a heavy wind.

you'll make a sadist of him."

Mrs. Cover suggested that teachers substitute love and understanding for whipping

'Most Wanted' Man Caught on Wyoming Ranch

Thermopolis, Wyo.—A cowboy on an isolated cattle ranch, arrested Tuesday while he ate, has admitted his identity as one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men.

Richard Allen Hunt, 27, was sought on charges of kidnapping an Oregon policeman and wounding another last March.

"He seemed glad it was all over," Sheriff Eddie Todorovich said after he and Undersheriff David Schott surprised Hunt at a ranch 35 miles west of Thermopolis. "He said he'd be glad to get back to Oregon."

Hunt, described by his employer as a "top all-around cowboy," verbally waived extradition before U.S. Commissioner Joe Cavall. He was jailed under $52,000 bond.

Hunt is charged with kidnapping a policeman at gunpoint in Harrisburg, Ore., on March 24 and with seriously wounding another officer in Brownsville, Ore., where the hostage was released.

German Forces Expected Defeat as Allies Landed

BY HORST FLUEGGE

Bonn—We had waited for the phone call for a long time. It came around 8 o'clock on June 6. A sergeant picked up the receiver. He listened for a while, then turned to us and said, "They have landed."

That was D-day. 15 years ago.

I was a lieutenant stationed with a German army mobile artillery unit at Avranches, 60 miles from the main allied beachhead at Cherbourg on the Normandy coast of France. I didn't see what happened at Cherbourg that morning, for we were marshaling the curious mixture of youthful veterans of the Russian front and the kids and old men hastily recruited for the defense of the Atlantic wall.

We marched for two days until we reached the Orne river near Caen and there we ran into the powerful barrages of superior Italian long range guns and Russian material confiscated on the eastern front and listening to our staff chief.

"Maybe they'll smash our artillery in a hurry and we'll get new stuff," he observed laconically.

Another artillery officer, a man with whom I had made the long retreat from the heart of Russia, had this cynical observation: "We might of Normandy was the most as well start the counterattack. Then we can retreat to the vulnerable region in the Atlantic wall whose defenses had been planned by Field Marshal Rommel and Von Rundstedt.

Our main forces lay 60 miles from the coast and

When the allies swarmed ashore on the French coast, a young German artillery officer was busy training green replacements for the defense of Hitler's Atlantic wall. Almost immediately, Horst Fluegge was caught up in the desperate attacks on the beachhead. In this third of four eyewitness articles commemorating D-day, Fluegge — now on the Associated Press staff in Germany — recalls the momentous events from a German viewpoint.

From the middle of May I had been adjutant to the commander of Artillery Unit 1154 in Avranches. I was moved there together with our other officers from the eastern front.

Our men were mostly youngsters and old men who had held staff jobs in Berlin. They were inexperienced and unable to cope with the superior weapons and manpower of the enemy.

We were not at all surprised by the allies' strike at Cherbourg. The coastal area had this cynical observation: "We might of Normandy was the most as well start the counterattack. Then we can retreat to the vulnerable region in the Atlantic wall whose defenses had been planned by Field Mar-role of our troops as low as it was in the first days of the allied invasion.

I remember talking to our staff chief in those first invasion days and hearing him say with a defeatist grin: "Let's take a Messerschmitt and go off to Spain."

On July 20, 1944, the plot to assassinate Hitler took place and failed. Word got around fast and we felt then that the war would last until we were driven back into Germany.

None of us thought in those days that a German economic miracle was just around the corner, that soon we would move from the devastation of defeat to the economic power of postwar Germany.

We fought hard, though it is difficult now to explain why. We fell back slowly before the advancing American and British tanks.

After July 20, there was a new twist to that: "Heads roll for victory—or the other side."

Near us was one of Hitler's

SS divisions, the Leibstandarte. The morale in that division was much higher than the morale in the regular army divisions.

But in talks with officers of the division I was surprised to find so few dedicated Nazis. They appeared to have more the morale of medieval militia than that of politically convinced Nazis.

None of us thought in those days that a German economic miracle was just around the corner, that soon we would move from the devastation of defeat to the economic power of postwar Germany.

At the beginning of the war, Hitler had proclaimed: "Ger-Rangers."

were killed or taken prisoner. I was hit in the side by a tank machine-gunner and removed to a hospital in Holland.

When the allies moved into Holland I was shipped back to Germany and eventually found myself in command of a newly organized artillery unit on the eastern front. I was in Czechoslovakia when many has grown larger." It was in Czechoslovakia when the war ended in May, 1945, isn't very large now.

At the beginning of the war, Hitler had proclaimed: "Ger-Rangers."

Jack Paar Wants To Cut Down His Midnight Shows

BY CHARLES MEISTER

New York — Jack Paar understandably wants to do three midnight shows a week instead of five.

NBC-TV understandably wants him to do five.

Paar is what is known as an "i n valuable property." During the past year he has become Jack Paar one of the most popular and unquestionably the most talked-about entertainers on television.

He probably has done more to rearrange the sleeping habits of more Americans than anything that has happened since pajamas superseded the old-fashioned nightshirt.

This is no satisfaction to Paar because he has had to rearrange his own sleeping habits along with his public bookings a head; and early-to-rise man—and Cousin Fuzzy, now on an Eau still would like to be. Ban Sale of Records Of Hitler Speeches

Bonn, Germany — The West German government has banned the sale of records of Hitler's speeches throughout West Germany.

An interior ministry official told parliament the records, imported recently by the Duesseldorf branch of a British firm, apparently were made for the American market.

The records also included speeches by Goering and Goebels and Nazi marching songs. Socialist Heinrich Ritzel said in parliament that their sale in Germany was a mockery of democracy.

Braves Turn Back Giant Threat, 7-4

Mathews Walks 18th and 19th
Homers as Milwaukee Boosts
League Lead to 3½ Games

By The Associated Press
It seems like ages ago, but fans remember when the word was that Milwaukee's Braves were choke-up guys? Whether that was a bum rap or not, they're a cool crew of 2-time champions now, chopping down anyone who threatens their shot at a Mathews third straight National league pennant.

It was mid-May when the Braves zeroed in, running off six in a row for a 44-game bulge. Then they slowed to a measure homer to right. The walk, winning a couple, los to stay on a line double by

The Upper Photo Shows how cut up Paolo Rosi looked in the eighth round of his fight with Joe Brown Wednesday night in Washington, D. C. Because of the severe cuts over Rosi's eyes, the fight was stopped at the end of the round, and Brown retained his lightweight championship on a technical knockout. In the lower picture, Referee Charley Reynolds holds Rosi for a ninth-round technical knockout in their 15-round title fight at Uline arena Wednesday night.

NOTES and NOTIONS

John L. Hartman

Unpredictability remains one of the sports world's greatest charms. Take the case of baseball player Harmon "The Killer" Killebrew. Before the season opened, the 22-year-old rookie wasn't even sure of regular employment with the Washington Senators. Now, he's a pretty good bet to be at third base for the American league in the All-Star game (or games). There was no way of knowing Killebrew would take to major league pitching quite the way he has. Last year, he needed 86

Killebrew games of AA ball (Chattanooga of the Southern association) to register a total of 17 home runs. This season, he reached the 17-homer mark in his forty-fourth game against American league pitching. In 31 at-bats with Washington at the tag-end of the '58 season, Killebrew got only six hits—and all of them were singles.

Mathews' winning shot came in the seventh off reliever Al Worthington, who then gave up Aaron's fifth.

Kirkland Homers

Bob Buhl (4-3) was the winner, although giving way in the eighth when Willie Kirkland homered and the Giants loaded the bases with two out. Don McMahon saved it, striking out Andre Rodgers to end the threat.

Unheralded Casey Wise also played a big role for Milwaukee, breaking up their 5-year-old roommate-ship in order to advance the extra curricular schooling of two young pitchers.

Wise, recalled from Louisville in the American association only Tuesday, drove in one run and scored two others.

Mathews' winning shot came in the seventh off reliever Al Worthington, who then gave up Aaron's fifth.

Mathews Is Making Fans Forget About '58

You have to go a long way to find a tougher guy to strike out than "Potato" Pascual. The Foxes' seasoned batting star fanned only once in his first 14 home games and only four times in the first 31 games, overall.

A recent Braves' item illustrates that Manager Fred Haney doesn't limit his tactical moves to the field of play. He suggested that Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette break up their 5-year-old roommateship in order to advance the extra curricular schooling of two young pitchers.

Wise, recalled from Louisville in the American association only Tuesday, drove in one run and scored two others.

Mathews' winning shot came in the seventh off reliever Al Worthington, who then gave up Aaron's fifth.

Illinois university's Bob Klaus, one of the Big Ten's leading hitters during the recently-concluded season, is the brother of Billy Klaus, one-time Appleton Papermaker and current Baltimore Oriole infielder.

Mathews Agrees He's Hitting the Ball Better Than Ever

By DAVE O'HARA

Milwaukee — Milwaukee slugger Eddie Mathews thinks he's hitting the ball better than ever. And there's little argument from opposing pitchers in the National league pennant fight.

The 27-year-old third baseman owns no less than 19 homers and 41 runs batted in during a determined effort to forget about a mediocre 1958 campaign, capped by a dismal showing in the World Series.

"I guess I am hitting the ball better than ever," Mathews said after a pair of tremendous 2-run homers Wednesday night in Milwaukee's 7-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Ties Killebrew

The horners boosted Eddie into a tie with Harmon Killebrew of the Washington Senators for the major league lead.

"I'm meeting the ball good and it doesn't make any difference who's pitching or what is thrown," Mathews said.

Told that homer No. 18 with "Casey" Wise on base in the sixth inning was estimated at upwards of 450 feet, Eddie laughed and said:

"Don't start talking that way. I don't care how far they go, as long as they clear the fence. I didn't see where this one went, but I connected."

Milwaukee — Milwaukee slugger Eddie Mathews thinks he's hitting the ball better than ever. And there's little argument from opposing pitchers in the National league pennant fight.

The 27-year-old third baseman owns no less than 19 homers and 41 runs batted in during a determined effort to forget about a mediocre 1958 campaign, capped by a dismal showing in the World Series.

"I guess I am hitting the ball better than ever," Mathews said after a pair of tremendous 2-run homers Wednesday night in Milwaukee's 7-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Ties Killebrew

The horners boosted Eddie into a tie with Harmon Killebrew of the Washington Senators for the major league lead.

"I'm meeting the ball good and it doesn't make any difference who's pitching or what is thrown," Mathews said.

Told that homer No. 18 with "Casey" Wise on base in the sixth inning was estimated at upwards of 450 feet, Eddie laughed and said:

"Don't start talking that way. I don't care how far they go, as long as they clear the fence. I didn't see where this one went, but I connected."

Draheim Hits Reports on 'Compromise'

Neenah Senator Says Republicans Haven't Accepted Budget

A Democratic compromise proposal on the state budget has been hit by State Sen. William Draheim, Neenah.

Milwaukee Livestock

Milwaukee — P—Estimated

The complete lack of effective compromise in the Democrat proposal leaves a very serious doubt as to their sincerity. Nevertheless, the taxpayers of the state may be assured that the Republican members of the conference committee will continue to make a determined effort to curb unnecessary or wasteful spending in the governor's budget."

Democrat legislators will leave the Republican second year budget intact at that time.

Criminologists
Handicapped,
Menashan Says

Dr. Verne Imhoff
Says Crime's 'Why'
Hard to Pin Down

Criminologists—those interested in the causation theory of crime—are doing a poor job. Dr. Verne Imhoff, director of University of Wisconsin Extension center, Menasha, told Appleton Kiwanis Wednesday noon.

"We have not evolved a theory on why people enter a life of crime. The main reason is there is no place to study the criminal," he said.

When Dr. Imhoff noted there is no organized crime in Appleton, Kiwanis gave Police Chief Walter J. Hendricks a round of applause.

"And," he added, "I'm surprised at the intelligence of our local police force."

Arouse Public

Dr. Imhoff said he hoped the Kefauver committee in 1952 would arouse the public, working through all means of communications, to the problem of organized crime.

When two Kansas City gangsters were killed some time ago, he said, his class was assigned to read newspapers about the event. "I could have predicted what would happen and told them. The news stories of the funeral had the mayor and five aldermen as pallbearers. Seventeen federal judges were honorary pallbearers and 81 state legislators were at the funeral."

Of the national ratio, he said, 65 per cent of the convicts return to an institution.

Expect Mistakes

During a question and answer period, Dr. Imhoff admitted criminologists are bound to make mistakes. Asked about Harold McLaughlin, the Milwaukee slayer of 5-year-old Ben Wagner, he said, "You don't hear about our successes, about the men who are treated and return to stability. You get only the failures. Only about 10 per cent of murderers have a previous record. The repeat rate is less than one and a half per cent."

"If rehabilitation is going to be our theory," he concluded, "we can't have stereotyped jurisprudence, giving everyone the same number of years for similar crimes without considering the circumstances. That's unrealistic."

Symington Urges
U. S. to Sell Way
Of Life to World

Los Angeles — Sen. Stuart Symington (D - Mo.) wants America to sell its way of life to the rest of the world.

He urged the United States to abandon what he termed its policy of containment. In a speech to Town Hall, a civic organization, Symington said Tuesday:

"We have made a fool out of Karl Marx. During the last 25 years American capitalism has disproved and confounded the Marxist dogma that the owner inevitably grinds down the workers, that the rich get rich and the poor poorer until the masses, in revolt, throw off their chains and establish a dictatorship."

But, the Missourian noted, the Russians and Chinese are determined to "bury the United States in a great world struggle for economic supremacy."

To offset this danger, Symington said, America should put its "ideas, ideals and treasure" into an aggressive campaign to promote its way of life.

Hand Gets Caught in Steering Wheel, Girl
Strikes Parked Truck

Kimberly — Jacqueline Strick, 16, route 4, Appleton, told police her hand became caught in the spokes of the steering wheel and she struck a parked truck owned by William Oeldorf, 38, Manitowoc, in the 100 block of N. Main street.
